About

To maintain a healthy client A/R, it is recommended to send statements, which can easily be printed in-house, on a regular basis. It is important to have an understanding of how the Billing Engine functions so that you provide your clients with accurate statements. Make sure that Services have been converted into Line Items so that a copay line is generated in the system for the client (you don't have a billed amount for the client until the Service becomes billable). Additionally, you need to make sure you are adding copays into the system for the data to be accurately reflected on the statement.
